Prime Minister Arrested!!

That would have been the headline (forget EX) if Sir Edward Heath had still been alive when "Nick" made those "credible and true" allegations.

That would have been the headline if David Cameron's "victim" had been a live lady instead of a dead pig and a live lady who had decided, 25 years later, that she had not, after all, been "willing".

Is this the way police should behave in 2015? Do we, as a society, approve of this? Unless the law is changed and improved now, it can only get worse.
