

RIP Alan Henning

Saturday, 04 October 2014

Send in an SAS undercover squad to track down and kill his murderers.

I'm not in favour of killing human beings under almost any circumstances but this kind of organised danger can only be suppressed by one route. Not bombings or warfare. Surgical, precise retaliation. Cut out the cancer.

My comments about "no borders" are illustrated by this. As the Internet changed the human species from small nations into a global race, so we need to deal with this kind of crime in a global fashion.
